PHILOSOPHY: LLUMC recognizes the right of competent patients to make their own decisions regarding the withholding or withdrawing of life sustaining treatment when they understand the consequences of such actions.

Related Policies:

Patients' Rights Regarding Advance Directives and Acceptance/ Refusal of Medical Care \(P-10\)

Conflict Resolution Regarding Patient Care \(P-12\)

DEFINITIONS: For purposes of this policy,

Patient:

A competent adult patient, eighteen years or older, or an emancipated minor (for patients with the legal status of emancipated minor, General Counsel should be consulted).

Agent for making decisions:

A competent adult who has legal authority to make health care decisions for the patient. If there is no legal agent already designated for making decisions, the patient may name an agent for making decisions for the present episode of care (hospitalization).

Limitation of Treatment Order:

One which directs that one or more specifically named treatment modalities are not to be initiated or continued.

“Do Not Attempt Resuscitation” (DNAR) order:

One example of a limitation of treatment order, one which directs that resuscitative efforts are not to be initiated in the event of cardiac and/or respiratory arrest. No chest compressions and no ventilatory support shall be used. However, in the event the conditions surrounding the arrest are considered unique and not part of the natural cause of the underlying disease or illness for which DNAR was originally ordered, the physician or health care worker shall use his/her reasoned medical judgment in determining whether to use CPR, such as if an arrest occurs during complication of therapeutic treatment. If it is the patient's wish that no resuscitative efforts be made, even in such situations, the DNAR order shall stand.

Physician Orders for Life-Sustaining Treatment (POLST):

A document created from a California law (2009) that serves as a communication of patient wishes regarding life-sustaining treatment. It applies across various treatment settings and is supplemental to an advance directive, if there is one. It translates patient wishes into orders for treatment and/or the withholding of treatment.

A. GENERAL PROVISIONS

1. The patient's attending physician shall assume responsibility for
 - 1.1 Determining the medical diagnosis as well as the short- and long-term prognosis
 - 1.2 Providing the patient and/or surrogate decision maker with any and all necessary information in an understandable manner so that an informed decision concerning the withholding and/or withdrawing of medical treatment can be made.
 - 1.3 Incorporating the POLST directives if the patient has provided a POLST form.
 - 1.4 Providing patients/families with information on end-of-life options as requested, including, but not limited to:
 - a. Verbal information
 - b. Pamphlets and other written materials
 - c. Requesting Social Work to provide information on counseling resources.

NOTE: Reference Policy Information and Counseling for Terminal Illness \(M-139\).

2. The attending physician or his/her licensed designee shall
 - 2.1 Discuss with the patient and/or agent for making decisions
 - a. The patient's condition and prognosis, including benefits vs. burdens of life-sustaining treatments.
 - b. All elements of informed consent
 - c. Provisions of advance directive, POLST provisions, and/or oral declaration of wishes and the impact on the patient's care

NOTE: POLST form shall be returned to the patient and copy filed with the patient's records
 - 2.2 Document in the medical record (to include but not be limited to) the following:
 - a. Diagnosis and condition; prognosis
 - b. Patient's capacity for decision-making

- c. Summary of discussions with patient or agent for making decisions and family, including all elements of the informed consent process (if there is a decision to limit treatment, the conversation should be documented in the Limitation of Treatment Progress Note),
- d. Basis of decision for limitation of treatment
- e. Goals for further therapy
- f. The benefits vs. burdens of life-sustaining treatments.

2.3 The attending physician, or a licensed resident physician in consultation with the attending physician, writes any needed orders when it has been decided that resuscitation measures are to be withheld or other treatment is to be limited

Note: Nurse Practitioners and Physician Assistants under the direction of a physician and within their scope of practice may enter orders consistent with a POLST or Advance Directive.

3. In the event the caregiver believes the patient may at some point in the illness lack decision-making capacity, healthcare personnel shall attempt to determine the existence of an agent for making decisions.

NOTE: This agent for making decisions may have already been designated in a "Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care" or "Advance Health Care Directive" document or may have been appointed as a "Conservator of the Person."

3.1 The basis for identifying a particular person as the agent decision maker shall be documented in the patient's medical record.

3.2 The patient shall be entitled to participate in treatment decisions as fully as is reasonably possible, even if an agent for making decisions has been appointed.

3.3 For patients who lack decision making capacity and have no surrogate decision makers, please see Policy Healthcare Decisions for Unrepresented Patients \(P-23\).

4. It shall be recognized that a patient has the right to communicate a decision to rescind his or her previous health care directives, i.e., (1) Living Will, (2) Natural Death Act, (3) Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care, (4) Advance Health Care Directive, or (5) POLST, including the right to overrule a decision by a surrogate decision maker.

NOTE: If there is a conflict between a patient's current wishes and a previous health care directive (or agent for making decisions acting under the authority of a previous health care directive), and there is no question regarding the patient's decision making capacity, LLUMC shall follow the patient's current wishes. If there is a question regarding the patient's decision making capacity, LLUMC shall act on the side of life.

LLUMC Administration and Clinical Ethics Service should be contacted in this situation to assist with resolving the conflicts.

5. Limitation of treatment (including withholding of CPR) and discontinuation of life-sustaining procedures orders shall be reviewed by the licensed physician when there is a change in the patient's condition, or at the request of the patient or agent for making decisions, as appropriate, when the patient is transferred to another service, and when the patient changes to another level of care (e.g., from ICU to acute care).
 - 5.1 A change in code status must first be personally verified with the patient/family by the ordering licensed physician
 - 5.2 A code status order written by a resident should be discussed first with the attending physician.

6. The physician performing a procedure/operation shall review a DNAR/LOT order with a patient who is scheduled for surgery or other invasive procedure or with the agent for making decisions regarding whether the DNAR/LOT order shall be suspended during the surgery/procedure and during the recovery period. The discussion and decision shall be documented.
 - 6.1 The wishes of the patient or agent for making decisions shall be honored if the patient or agent for making decisions does not wish to suspend the DNAR/LOT order.
 - a. If the patient/agent does not want the Limitation of Treatment/DNAR order to be suspended for the procedure/surgery, the physician may indicate that the procedure/surgery cannot be done under those conditions.
 - 6.2 If a DNAR/LOT order has been temporarily suspended, it shall be reentered in the medical record once the patient has completed the recovery phase.

7. Physicians/NP's/PA's who have had conversations with hospitalized patients regarding goals of care, and who are subsequently discharging those patients, should complete a POLST form to ensure that other providers are aware of those patients' wishes.

B. DISCONTINUING LIFE-SUSTAINING PROCEDURES

1. The following conditions must be met when considering the discontinuance of life-sustaining procedures:
 - 1.1 The attending physician shall determine and document that:

a. The patient or agent for making decisions chooses to discontinue the life-sustaining procedures when it has been determined and documented that the conditions in items (1) through (4) or item (5) below have been met:

1) The patient has a condition that without the administration of life-sustaining treatment will, within reasonable medical judgment, result in death;

2) Discontinuation of life sustaining procedures is consistent with the patient's desires as stated by the patient or agent for making decisions,

NOTE: The declaration of a qualified patient known to the attending physician to be pregnant shall not be given effect as long as the patient is pregnant.

3) The likely burdens of continued treatment would be disproportionate to the anticipated benefits.

4) There is a full understanding by the patient or the agent for making decisions of the consequences of the discontinuation of life-sustaining treatment.

5) The Clinical Ethics Service or the Ethics Committee has been consulted and agrees with the extenuating circumstances of the particular case to discontinue life sustaining procedures as requested by the patient or agent for making decisions.

1.2 It is recommended that the Organ Procurement Organization (OPO – currently One Legacy) be notified within 60 minutes of awareness that the patient/family are considering withdrawal of life support so they can evaluate prior to withdrawal whether organ donation after circulatory death may be an option.

2. There shall be documentation in a Limitation of Treatment progress note, and full documentation in the patient's medical record which demonstrates the understanding of the patient or agent for making decisions of:

2.1 All medically reasonable treatment options,

2.2 The likely results, including the benefits vs. burdens of treatment options.

- 2.3 The discussion concerning the discontinuation of life-sustaining treatment, and
- 2.4 Responses of the patient or surrogate decision maker
3. An attending physician's order shall be required for the discontinuation of life-sustaining procedures.
4. All efforts will be made to ensure the comfort of a patient once life-sustaining therapies have been withheld or withdrawn, including Palliative Care consultation as needed.

C. RESOLVING CONFLICTS

1. While physicians or other health care providers shall not be obligated to do that which violates their consciences or professional judgment regarding withholding or withdrawing life-sustaining treatment, the physician or other health care provider shall take all reasonable steps, as promptly as practicable, to transfer care of the patient to another physician or health care provider who is willing to care for the patient as the patient or the agent for making decisions has requested.
2. Any unresolved disagreements among the attending physician, members of the health care team, the patient or the agent for making decisions, and/or family members concerning life sustaining procedures for the patient shall be referred to the Clinical Ethics Service for consultation (reference Policies Clinical Ethics Consultations \(M-138\) and Conflict Resolution Regarding Patient Care \(P-12\)).
